Gouvernance

Sames has a history of challenges, which we have met with and through a loyal network of partners and customers. Because transparency and proximity are the foundation of all the relationships we have built, we are proud to accompany them in each of their projects and to contribute to their satisfaction.

Didier Brotons
Sales Director EMEA

Since its beginnings, Sames has invented and commercialized technologies that allow our customers to reduce their environmental impact while increasing their industrial efficiency. It is our Sames Services teams that support them in maximizing the performance of our equipment: consuming the least amount of product while using the least amount of energy possible!

Julien De Feydeau
Technical Director: Engineering and Services

The whole Sames team is fully dedicated to answer the challenges related to the application of high viscosity products. Our global customer focus, our test laboratories, and our ability to integrate robotic solutions allow us to identify and implement really useful innovations.

Dirk Löchner
Director of the Erfstadt site for high viscosity technologies

More than ever, the stakes for our customers and therefore for ourselves, are extremely high. Operational and energy efficiency, frugality in terms of resources consumed and recycling are leading us to completely review our value chain. We are working to invent the best products, solutions and services to meet these challenges.

«We knew it was impossible, that's why we did it for our customers.»

Hervé Walter
Director of the Stains site dedicated to Airspray, Airmix® and Airless technologies

Innovation and customer orientation are part of our DNA. Our teams have been working since the beginning to limit our environmental impact right from the design of our products. The air motors for our rotating bell sprayers that we have been developing for decades are so safe, innovative and durable that we can guarantee them for 7 years.

Richard Włodarczyk
Director of the Meylan site dedicated to Bell and Powder technologies

Sames is committed to being a responsible and supportive company in line with its values and history. Sames is dedicated to promoting health in the workplace, to taking into account disabilities and to reflecting diversity in all its components. Sames implements its «Human Touch» policy.

Sophie Brocchetto
Director of human resources

In a volatile, uncertain, complex and ambiguous world, it is our commercial and technical presence close to our customers that allows us to innovate and meet their needs. Thanks to the close collaboration of our marketing and R&D teams with numerous product manufacturers, we design simple, efficient and environmentally friendly solutions.

François Gruès
Marketing and Business Development Director

To better serve our customers, our digital transformation is moving forward at high speed. We are deploying IOT solutions to improve the efficiency of our customers' production processes. The better knowledge of these customers and their processes also allows us to develop our services offer to improve their operational performance.

Danny Wolring
Director of Administration, Finance and IT

Sames is adapting to a competitive environment by transforming its supply chain to make it agile, resilient and efficient, with a strong focus on customer satisfaction. Our teams constantly monitor market signals to seize opportunities and manage risks. They quickly adjust workflows to maintain excellent service and respond to requests accurately and on time.
